

What would happen if Russia detonated a nuclear bomb in space?

A mysterious satellite known as Cosmos 2553 has raised concerns that Russia is conducting tests that could lead to a nuclear weapon in space.

By William Neff, Frank Hulley-Jones and Joel Achenbach

<https://www.washingtonpost.com/technology/interactive/2024/nukes-space-explosion-nuclear-weapon-russia/>

A nuclear blast in space could set off a cascade of satellite collisions, creating an orbital debris field. (The Post)

